

Foreword

As the Head of UK Trade & Investment Defence & Security Organisation (UKTI DSO), I am delighted to support this edition of British Security.

The UK security sector has evolved to become one of the most diverse and technically advanced in the world. Strong partnerships between government, academia and industry have enabled us to respond quickly to new and emerging threats, developing the technologies and know-how required to protect people, assets and critical national infrastructure. Our expertise in this field is recognised across the globe.

This publication showcases a broad spectrum of the UK's capabilities, ranging from relatively simple physical protection devices such as barriers and security fencing, through to the most sophisticated networked surveillance and detection systems.

As a source of information on UK security products and services, I recommend this publication to you and hope that it will assist you in identifying the right solution to your security needs.

Richard Paniguian CBE

Head of UK Trade & Investment Defence & Security Organisation